GLOBALIZATION AND WATER RESOURCES MANAGEMENT: THE CHANGING VALUE OF WATER

AUGUST 6-8 AWRA/IWLRI-UNIVERSITY OF DUNDEE INTERNATIONAL SPECIALTY CONFERENCE 2001

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to the Co-editors of this volume, David M. Moody and Patricia K. Wouters, for all their work in developing the conference program and for their extraordinary efforts in reviewing the papers for these Proceedings. Their dedication, professionalism, and good humor made this ambitious undertaking much more manageable and enjoyable.

Mark Cargill, of the University of Dundee, put the CD-ROM together under a great deal of time pressure and deserves much appreciation for his efforts. I would also like to thank all of the authors represented in these Proceedings for their papers and their cooperation with our review process. These Proceeding papers will also be made available on the AWRA website at <http://www.awra.org>.

Neither the conference nor these Proceedings could have been possible without the expertise and assistance of the AWRA staff. Pat Reid's capable handling of the mountains of correspondence generated in response to the interest in this conference lightened all of our workloads. Pat and Charlene Young worked to produce an outstanding call for papers, and preliminary and final conference programs. They put up with repeated last minute changes.

And it was the enthusiasm and vision of Ken Reid, AWRA Executive Vice-President, who enabled us all to run with this project, the Association's first international specialty conference. His leadership guided us painlessly through all the details and his sense of humor through all of the trans-Atlantic conference calls. We owe him so much more than Scotch Whiskey. AWRA's support of its International Activities Committee is at least in part due to Ken's appreciation of the importance of the international water arena.

Patricia K. Wouters and Ranji Dhillon handled the Dundee side of the planning, and it was a real pleasure to work with them. Their efforts greatly contribute to the success of this joint venture and helped create a true partnership among the members of the organizing committee. It is an honor to take part in this event with the University of Dundee's International Water Law Research Institute.

Lastly, those sponsoring this conference deserve our sincere gratitude. Their contributions help make this a more successful event for the participants, and we are grateful to each of the co-sponsors listed in the Final Program.
